

JANUARY 2019

May you all have a Blessed and Happy New Year

As a parent it's your role to make sure your child understands the connection between actions and consequences. As toddlers grow into preschoolers, they will continue to test their boundaries and your limits. It's up to you, to teach your preschooler how to behave appropriately. Remember, discipline means "to teach." It's important to explain to kids what you expect of them before you impose consequences certain behavior. Even as you make it clear which negative behaviors will have consequences, don't forget to reward good behaviors. The goal of discipline is to teach children the rules of behavior so that they can use
